A HOT TIME AT ACCA TEMPLE. Acca Temple, Mystic Shrine, held its regular meeting at the Masonic Temple last night, and there was a large atten dance of Knights of the Fez. Regular work took up some time, after which four victim were taken across the burning sands, and in the hands of the most cruel of the Shriners were put through the new tortures invented for the occasion. Potentate Hotchkiss was in the chair and all of his assistants at their posts of duty.

As usual, something remarkable had to be done just to keep up Acca's reputation, so Nobles Boykin, Sands, and Streets fixed it. They attended Sipe & Blake's deg and pony circus and found those gentlemen willing to help make things lively. As soon as the performance closed, Professor Blake ordered his police-patrol wagon out and hitched to it two of his hand-om-st ponies. He next picked two of his trick dogs and then another pony and a riding dog, and just for the fun of it, ran in his tick donkey, Colonel.

Accompanied by Mr. Sipe, press agent J. W. Maxwell, Policeman Red. ford, Messrs. Boykin and Sands, and a Dispatch man, the professor started to the Temple. In the wagon was also seated Policeman Redford. lowing came Professor Blake with his pets, and then Colonel Boykin leading the donkey.

Mr. Street interferred and was arrested by Policeman Redford and put in the patrol-wagon. All this was a conplete surprise to the assembled Shrite and as soon as they had ceased laugh ing Professor Blake had his pets per

WANTS ANOTHER HUSBAND AT SIXTY-THREE.

The New York Times tells that Mrs Maria Pigeon, a nervous, bustling little woman of 63, announced last week that she was again in the matrimonial market after losing one husband by death, a second who ran away, and a prospective third husband because he was fickle. She wants to lose as little time as possible, because, as she puts it, "life as fleeting and short, and there is no sense in remaining single when you can just as well be married."

Mrs. Pigeon was disappointed. She had sued the prospective busband in the Eighth street municipal court for money loaned and had lost. She said hat she had married her first husband, Pigeon, 37 years ago. "He died in 1896," she said, "and then I went to live with my married daughter in Bos-ton. Soon after I began to get love letters from Michael Tucker, who used to work with my husband in a shoe shop in New York. My daughter advised me to marry him, and I sent him $10 to pay his fare to Boston. He came, but insisted on marrying in New York, and that trip cost me more. When we arrived here I had to pay for rooms. He borrowed a dollar of me, went out, and got so drunk that he could not move. So I packed up and returned to Boston, and then went to Brooklyn. Tucker was after me again, and wanted me to set him up a hoe shop, but on each day fixed for he marriage he made some excuse." Dilatory Tucker disgusted her, and she married Patrick David Welsh, rented a shop for him, and bought $60 worth of leather. Tucker began woo-ing again, whereat Welsh became angry and ran away, and that was the last she saw of him. To get revenge upon Tucker a second time she sued him, and he swore that he had paid her every cent. She had dressed herself in her best before she went to court, and on leaving the house at 178 Thompson street she remarked to her landlord: "Perhaps Tucker's love may return when he meets me in court." Justice Moore asked her: "Don't you think you had better quit getting married?" She replied there was no sense in remaining single.

Story of a Slave. To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Elec-tric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and diseases. fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle-working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by E. S. Allen and E. S. Leadbeater &
